

Environmental Protection 2014 New Product of the Year Award Winners Announced

DALLAS, March 10, 2015 — Environmental Protection (eponline.com), part of the 1105 Media Inc. Security, Safety, and Health Group, today announced the first-place winners in the 2014 Environmental Protection New Product of the Year contest. Since 2010, the contest has been recognizing the outstanding achievements of industry manufacturers whose products are considered particularly noteworthy for making environmental professionals' jobs a little easier.

"We heartily congratulate all of the companies that entered the contest, particularly the many entrants in the Health and Safety/Cleanup category," said Jerry Laws, editorial director of eponline.com. "The judges' scores in every category were extremely close, which testifies to the quality and innovation in each product that was entered this year."

The winning products will be featured on the website, and Environmental Protection will award a trophy to each winning company. All of the contest entries were products that were introduced to the market during the 2014 calendar year.

Three experts from the environmental industry served as judges — Traci-Anne Boyle, MBA, CIH, CSP, LAC of AirQuest Environmental, Inc. in Fort Lauderdale, FL; Timothy Alan Grobe, CSP, CHMM, CET, ASCS of Cross Environmental Services, Inc. (CES) in Crystal Springs, FL; and Angela Neville, JD, of Carrollton, TX. Ms. Boyle is the founder of AirQuest Environmental and has over twenty years of diverse environmental consulting and industrial hygiene experience. Mr. Grobe is the director of safety and health and a safety engineer at CES. Ms. Neville is an environmental attorney and served for many years as the editor of Environmental Protection magazine.

Winners were awarded in the following categories:
